

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

Tanks of Patton's Third Army advanced five miles in a drive cutting behind Metz. This battle area is at least 14 miles beyond the 1918 Armistice Day battle line.

On Armistice Day a task force of B-29's attacked three targets of important Japanese war material areas. The attacks were made in daylight.

Reports from Britain indicate that the new German bomb V-2, has netted some 40 to 50 casualties. The weapons plummet to earth often from a height of 70 miles at the rate of 1000 miles per hour. The antiaircraft barrages have knocked out a number of the bombs on the coast.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill appeared on the streets of Paris with General Charles de Gaulle on Armistice Day.

Health Department To Conduct School For Food Handlers

The Baldwin County Department of Health has announced plans for a three-day school for food handlers which will be conducted Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week in the court room at the court house.

The school, sponsored by the local Health Department, the U. S. Public Health Service and the Georgia Department of Public Health, will be conducted on the following schedule:

The afternoon sessions, to be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, November 14, 15 and 16, will open at 3:15 and close at 4:45.

The evening sessions, on the same dates, will open at 7:30 and close at 9:00.

St. John, News Analystist To Appear on Series Nov. 27

Robert St. John, noted newspaperman, news commentator, and author, will be the second speaker on the Student Lecture series, Nov. 27 in Russell Auditorium. His subject will be The World at War.

Mr. St. John has been an NBC news commentator from New York and London since 1942. He was on the scene of the bombings of Corfu, Corinth, and Argos in Greece, and on his return to the United States related his adventures in his books, "From the Land of Silent People."

"You can see what you want to see and think what you want to think when there's a war on," Mr. St. John writes in the preface of his book; "and you can make it fit into any pattern you wish, if you have a pattern already, but you can't change the noises and smells of war. It's easy to be a propaganda dispenser or a propaganda consumer. Everything fits in so perfectly. But I'm just telling you what I saw and heard and smelled. If it makes sense to you, all right. If it makes no sense to me. If it fits in, fine. If it doesn't, just skip it. Then you will be able to forget. And that will be fine, too, for you."

Mr. St. John was a Balkan correspondent for the Associated Press from 1939-1941 after being on the staffs of several outstanding newspapers in this country. He is a contributor to several magazines and has a regular broadcast from London.

He received his education at St. Albans School, Syracuse, Ill., and Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

McCormack, Craig Star In Play

"George Washington Slept Here"—right here on the stage in Russell Auditorium for the first night, Wednesday, November 8, and for the last night, Thursday, November 9, from 8:30 until 10:30.

The characters impersonated in the delightful comedy uncovered the abilities of the Jessies, the Navy, and even Dr. Slick. Bee McCormack and Herbert Craig, as Annabelle and Newton Fuller, performed their characters excellently. Aunt Harriet was nobly enacted by Joyce Edmunds. The audience even prepared to be blown to pieces and drenched by rain when leaving, so good were the sound effects during those episodes. And apparently some very smart interior decorator transformed the abandoned old farm house into a modern home for the second act.

Senior Hop Opens Formal Dance Season

With the fall decorations as a motive the seniors lead out with the first formal dance of the season Saturday night in the Atkinson Rec Hall.

In addition to the dates a group of men from Cochran Field were invited to the dance.

Seniors who served on the dance committee were: Helen Wallace, Jane Bagley, Carolyn Cox, Gladine Culpepper, Glynise Smith, Margo Flahive, Jane Harrell, Evelyn Echols, Janet Jean Trappnell, and Susan Morris.

Concert Series Opens Here With Youthful Violinist Featured

Patricia Travers, 15 year old violinist, opened the 1944-1945 Community Concert series in Russell Auditorium last Friday night.

The young artist made her radio debut on the Ford Hour with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic and Chicago Symphony Orchestras, and with other leading orchestras including those of Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, Washington, Philadelphia, St. Louis, and Cleveland. Her screen debut was in Paramount's "There's Magic in Music," a picturization of the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

The two priceless instruments she uses are: a Stradivarius, known as the "Tom Taylor," dated 1732 and a Joseph Guarnerius del Gesu, dated 1733. Both are outstanding historic examples of fine violins.

The program presented by Miss Travers included:

Fugue in G Major—Tartini-Nachez

Prayer—Handel-Flesch

Students Can Prevent Another War

So you think there shouldn't a third World War?

So you wouldn't like for instruments of destruction to come winging over the top of the world and make Minneapolis and Mankato into a Cologne and a Coventry?

So you wouldn't like for the babies now crying in their mother's arms to have to go out some day and kill or be killed?

Well, you can do something about it.

Every time you walk into a classroom in geography, history, sociology, political science or economics you can do something about it. Only an America which knows the world, its people, and their relations with one another can prevent a third war.

When you walk into a classroom in health or physical education, you can do something about it. Only a healthy America can be a straight-thinking America.

In your science classes, you can learn the physical basis and the physical relationships of all life. In your English classes, you can learn to make your mind work better, and can learn the ideals that humanity needs to know if there is to be peace. In your fine arts classes, you can learn some of the things that make life meaningful and beautiful.

And when you walk into a classroom in education, you can learn how to transmit to another generation, the knowledge, the ideals, and the beauty that you have discovered. You can learn how to help create a straight-thinking America that can make impossible a third World War.

So you think there shouldn't a third World War?

Well, it's up to you.—The COLLEGE REPORTER, Mankato State Teachers College, Mankato, Minn.

A Way To Prepare For Tomorrow

Our college work seems to be directed toward two objectives: Preparation for living after college and actual experience in living while here. Preparation for the all-around living which is the final goal seems best effected through gaining a knowledge of the principles of living and then practicing that knowledge.

We have recently been offered two opportunities for such training in experience and for such experience, itself. Those of us who are 18 have the right to vote. And all of us have a chance to find out about government in its actual working. The League of Women Voters on our campus can help to give us this knowledge and can help us to use this right intelligently—can help us to make of ourselves, for now and the future, really effective citizens.

The GSCW League will be affiliated with the state and national leagues, being a non-partisan society of students and faculty members working for active, effective citizenship and good government.

What Is International Students' Day?

On Nov. 17, 1939, in Prague, 156 Czechoslovak students were massacred by the Nazis, and 1,200 were taken to concentration camps in Germany, because they rebelled against Nazi invasion.

Since then, International Students' Day has been commemorated in all the free countries of the world. It has been celebrated in the great cities of London, Moscow, New York, Delhi, Jerusalem, Montevideo as well as in small towns and villages in every corner of the world.

This year, Nov. 17 will stand as reminder of the part all young people who have fought aggression in the war torn countries of Europe are playing. In recognition of their resistance it is fitting that we, of the free youth of the world, must make this day, this year, a dynamic commemoration with the most fitting tribute—one of acts and action.—American Youth for a Free World.

Paralysis Epidemic Reaches 16,133 Foundation Needs Physical Therapists

The 1944 epidemic of infantile paralysis, totalling 16,133 cases up until October 14, has officially become the second worst in the recorded history of the disease in the United States, it was announced by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

At the same time, Mr. O'Connor stressed the need for more skillful fighters, especially physical therapists, and urged that men and women who have the proper qualifications make applications for scholarships offered by the National Foundation and its chapters.

"Although the peak of the outbreak has passed, the epidemic itself has not ended," warned Mr. O'Connor. "He pointed out that there were 710 new cases reported for the week of October 7-14, or nearly half the weekly total at the peak of the epidemic, the week ending September 2 when 1638 cases were reported."

"This great outbreak has tested not only the resources of the National Foundation and its chapters, but also those of the nation," he added. "The seven states most severely menaced were New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky, but emergency aid in the form of money, professional personnel and supplies has been sent this year by the Foundation to 21 states and the District of Columbia."

"Although the National Foundation and its chapters have trained many physical therapists in the modern principles of treating infantile paralysis, many more technicians are still needed for this present fight," said Mr. O'Connor. "The greatest handicap in rendering effective aid in any epidemic of infantile paralysis has been the lack of physical therapists. The National Foundation through its scholarships in accredited schools of physical therapy has been and still is seeking to enlarge this first line of defense."

Library Collection Of Classic Records Provides Enjoyment For Music Lovers

New books are added to our library almost every day, and now a splendid collection of classical records has been added.

These records are in the Beeson Reading Room and can be played from until 5 in the afternoon and from 8 until 9 at night. They have been placed in the library for the enjoyment of anyone who likes music of the masters.

This collection of records has been carefully selected and includes the best known and best liked. Among the composers represented are Beethoven, Mozart, Chopin, Wagner, Bach, Debussy and Schubert. The records represent the best-known of their works. There are Beethoven's Fifth Symphony; Mozart's Serenade in G Major; Bach's Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring; Schubert's Ave Maria; and Debussy's Afternoon of a Faun. These are just a few of the best. There are many others, such as Faust and a delightful piano solo recording by Paderewski.

You can tell by these selections that it will be worth your time to go over and hear these records if you would like an hour of relaxation and enjoyment with the best of classical music.

If there are records that you would like to hear that are not in the collection, they will be added from time to time as they are requested.

GSCW Response Exceeds Quota

Genuine patriotism and the strong conviction that their own generation must be salvaged around the world have been demonstrated by the response of GSCW students to the War Fund Drive.

All dormitories have gone over their quota in the drive. The goal for the student body was set at $1,000. Faculty members have reached the $1,200 quota which was assigned to them. Final totals for the drive have not yet been announced.

Students may be interested to know that the money raised in the drive will go to help our boys all over the world. It also helps make life in prison camps easier for them. Much of the fund provides food, clothing and shelter for refugees and people in war-torn nations who have been deprived of the very necessities of life.

"I demand an honorary organization for the C-Group!"

Rudolph Kratina, Cellist, Earns Title Of Master On Many Trades

"Jack of all trades, master of many" is a title that could be worn in all honesty by Rudolph Kratina, cellist, artist and singer.

Mr. Kratina admits that his hobbies are sketching and playing the cello. "When I am not playing, I am sketching. Sometimes I sleep on the bus tours," quipped the cellist when interviewed following his recent recital here.

The "bus tours" are the numerous trips he makes between Athens, where he is an instructor in the music department at the University, and Atlanta, where he gives private lessons. He also makes many concert appearances all over Georgia which provide him with plenty of "bus tours" and, consequently, sleeping time.

Speaking in a more serious vein, the German-born artist remarked that, while he is able to interpret music for others to enjoy, his "real love" is creative work. This creative work is not limited to his compositions for the cello. He is also a very talented painter and on his visit here, lectured to several art and music classes and exhibited several of his own paintings. However, he admitted that he is working on a new cello composition, based on a prayer by Colubus when he sighted the land of America. Mr. Kratina hopes to play that composition at his next recital here.

Although Mr. Kratina failed to mention it, we have it on very reliable authority that he is a gifted bass-baritone. In fact, his next recital may be a three-in-one, combining his sketching, playing and singing.

Mr. Kratina has been in this country since 1939, and has been affiliated with the University of Georgia for four years. He was connected for 25 years with the Dresden Opera. His wife is a native of Augusta.

Wellbauer Gives Two Army Films

Lieut. Wellbauer, United States Army, ran two timely films as a special feature of the Health Club meeting last Wednesday night.

The first of these films, "To the People of the United States," was a picture on venereal disease in this country. The second, an army film of actual battlefield scenes, was an appeal "To The Ladies" to aid the war effort by joining the medical division of the Women's Army Corps.

Sgt. Byrnes of the WAC, stressed the urgent need for more trained laboratory technicians, X-ray technicians, physiotherapists, and dietitians, and stated that she would confer with any girls interested in any of these fields. She can be contacted through the health department.

At the business meeting following the program, Betty Owens was elected treasurer, and plans were made for spending a week end at Lake Laurel.

Committee chairmen were appointed and included: Harriet Little, program; Jane Knowles, social; Al Shuman, membership; Elizabeth Waters, publicity.

Goblins Catch Hallowe'eners

"...an' the goblins 'ull git you if you don't watch out!"

Spectral shapes, eerie screams, the soft purring tones of the Know-All, Tell-All Lady, rattling cornstalks and innumerable cousins of Ichabod's Headless Horseman all contrived to see that Hallowe'en was properly celebrated on the GSCW campus, on the Saturday night most appropriate to the traditional date.

Planned and directed by the student "Y," the party was given in the gym, which was decorated with autumn leaves, apples, the above mentioned cornstalks, and Hallowe'en colors.

Featured during the evening were a chamber of horrors, apple-bobbing contests, fortune telling, bowling, bingo, and dancing. Refreshments were served.

Those working to make the party such a success were Marion Bessent, chairman of the entertainment committee and her subcommittee chairmen.

Will St. John's Predictions For 1944 Be 80 Per Cent Fulfilled Also?

Four of the five predictions for 1943 made by Robert St. John, who will lecture here Nov. 27, came true by December 1, and the fifth one was half-fulfilled.

Here are some of the things St. John expects will happen before Christmas, 1944:

Most of the large cities of Germany will be obliterated by block-buster air raids.

By Christmas, Germany will either have surrendered, or will be rapidly approaching annihilation.

Most of Germany's "little allies" will have dropped out of the fight.

Revolution will convulse most of the countries now occupied by the Nazis.

Gas will be used as a last resort by both Germany and Japan.

At least one outstanding European figure will be assassinated by the end of 1944.

The sea war in the Pacific will go into high gear, with the Japanese navy suffering catastrophic losses.

Finland will be forced out of her alliance with Germany. The big battle on the home front will be against inflation and against internal differences.

Woodward Melts Staunch British Reserve On English Good-Will Tour

Famous British reserve melted before at least one recent American visitor, according to that visitor, herself, Miss Emily Woodward, noted Georgia author and director of the University of Georgia forums, who spoke in Chapel, October 31.

Speaking on her recent good-will trip to England which was sponsored by the OWI and the British Ministry of Information, Miss Woodward said: "I learned that the English were glad enough to talk to me, if I'd give them the chance, especially when they found that I was always willing to talk about American mistakes."

From that point on, in her conversations with and addresses to thousands of Britishers, the speaker said that it was easy to bring her audience to a consideration of British mistakes. "That technique made for better understanding," she declared.

Traveling by convoy under strict black-out and air-protection, Miss Woodward went to Liverpool by way of Montreal and Halifax, the trip requiring 17 days. One vessel was lost, she said.

"Preparation for the invasion was a terrific, stupendous job," she asserted, remarking on her good fortune at being in England at the time of the invasion. Immediately prior to D-Day, Miss Woodward was allowed, under strict censorship, to visit the channel port of Portsmouth.

"I wanted to meet the common people, who were working to win the war," she said. In order to meet those people the Georgia journalist visited colleges and lower schools, factories and farms, leading discussions on British-American relationships.

Of the people, the speaker said, "they know how to take it, and they've been taking it for five years. It's a battle to live in that country." Food though adequate is monotonous, according to her, and clothing is strictly rationed.

Miss Woodward returned to America by plane with a group of wounded soldiers. She stressed the care and consideration such boys would all need when they returned home. In closing she stated emphatically: "It is our duty to keep alive the things for which they are fighting."

Miss Woodward is the founder of the Georgia Press Institute.

Miss See Rice, a representative of the Wheat Flour Institute, will be on the campus Tuesday for demonstrations. She conducted one demonstration yesterday afternoon. Tuesday's demonstration will be held at 8:30 and 11:00 a. m. in Chappell 10.

December Graduates Asked To Join Bureau

What Will Johnny Find? Weder Asks

By HAZEL SMITH

A timely novel has been written by Dixon Weder. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" relates the problems and experiences which the service men of our three major wars have faced. The author ties these in with the problems and experiences of the men in this present war.

Heroes of the Revolutionary War were just like the heroes of the Civil War. They had the same worries concerning a post-war world and their return to civilian life as did their grandsons who went to France in 1917.

Now, the average soldier and sailor is wondering about that job, the girl he left behind, and his other plans for the future.

This book places the question, "What Will Johnny Be Marching Home To?" squarely before the American public. Read about the reactions of our Revolutionary, Civil, First World War heroes and decide how you will react to our returning service men in World War II.

This book is in the Rental Library.

Library Holds Open House

"United Through Books" is the theme of this year's Book Week being observed November 13 through 17 at GSCW.

On Wednesday of this week the Beeson Reading Room will be a "recruiting center" for you to "join up" with a good book. On display will be approximately 400 books—books you've heard about, books you've wanted to read. The exhibit will be open all day and from 3:30 until 5:30 the library is holding open house with a special invitation to all to come drink not only punch but information and inspiration from the new books.

Some of the books to be in the exhibit will be Deep River by Henrietta Buckmaster, Forever Amber by Margaret Windsor, We Stood Alone by Dorothy Adams, Yours For Tomorrow by Helen Hall Miller, and the witty Dear Sir by Juliet Lowell.

Wendell L. Willkie's last great book An American Program and Yankee from Olympus, the story of Justice Holmes and his family will be there.

The Sad Sack, cartoons from "Yank," The Letters of Alexander Woolcott, China, a book of photographs by Chinese-American Fritz Henle and Ruth L. Bonde's Management in Daily Living are also included in the exhibit.

There is quite a large collection of books on Mexico and our South American neighbors, and about 100 for children.

Make this year's theme really hold true and gain information and entertainment through reading good books.
